

Uncovering mysterious 'E'

A FEATURE film with strong links to the Blue Mountains will get its local premiere in December, at a special screening in Mount Victoria.

All About E - a new Australian comedy-drama - will screen in the Mountains for one night only on Sunday, December 6 at Mount Vic Flicks.

Presented by local lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans and intersex (LGBTI) group Pink Mountains, the screening will be attended by the film's director Louise Wadley and producer Jay Rudovitz, who will take part in an audience question and answer afterwards.

Sydney-based Ms Wadley - who has directed several acclaimed feature documentaries and shorts - said she was thrilled to be presenting All About E in the Blue Mountains, as the region had played a formative part in its development.

"All About E was written over several years, mostly in the Blue Mountains, during writing sojourns in Wentworth Falls," said Ms Wadley.

"I'm very lucky to have two good friends in Wentworth Falls - Jude Finch and Mary Waterford, of Blue Mountains East Timor Sisters renown - whose home I'd escape to for days at a time, writing and brainstorming."

A road movie which blurs

the lines between comedy, drama, thriller and romance, the film concerns the story of E, played by Mandahla Rose (Oranges and Sunshine, Wolf Creek 2) - a Sydney DJ who finds herself on the run when she and her best friend stumble upon a stash of cash. Along the way, E must find the strength to face her demons, come out as a lesbian to her migrant family, and confront the girl who once broke her heart.

Also starring NIDA graduates Julia Billington (Janet King, Catching Milat) and Brett Rogers (Rake, The Film-maker), All About E screened to packed houses at its Mardi Gras Film Festival debut in Sydney earlier this year.

The Mount Vic Flicks screening is part of a nationwide release in 30-plus cinemas through cinema-on-demand platform, Tugg.

Pink Mountains co-convenor Peter Hackney said the choice of Mount Vic Flicks as one of the screening locations was a boon to the Mountains' burgeoning LG-BTI community.

"It's important for the large local LGBTI community to see their lives reflected in the arts without having to trek to the city, so Pink Mountains is thrilled to promote this screening.

"Having said that, this isn't a film that will appeal only to lesbians," he said.

"The main character's best friend is a gay man who gets all the best lines, and the themes of the film have universal appeal. All About E will appeal to fans of Australian film generally, and anyone who likes a good story."

Tickets to the screening at 6.30pm on Sunday, December 6, can be purchased via the Tugg website: www.tugg.com/events/70674
